SAVINGS OF £1M MUST BE FOUND

Council's Government grant even lower than expected

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE new year has started with a grim warning that savings of more than £1m will have to be made by Harlow Council as the full impact of Government cuts are revealed.

The draft Local Government Settlement, which sets out how much money councils will receive, was announced last month with the council anticipating a cut to their main grant of 10 per cent.

However, this week the authority revealed that it will receive £346,000 less than it had anticipated - taking the total cut to more than £1m.

Harlow Council leader Jon Clempner said the revelation is "not good news" for the town.

Settlement

"Having assessed the impact of the latest settlement we are a little bit clearer on what it all means for Harlow Council, but we are still none the wiser on what the future of local government funding will be once the main grant is phased out for local councils in the years to come," he said.

"This creates further uncertainty for council services and residents. We know we could face

Arrests after brawl and car collision in village

A MAN from Harlow has been arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm and failing to stop at the scene of an accident following a street brawl.

Police were called to an altercation in High Wych on Saturday afternoon after reports that a man had been chased and a car had followed him.

It is believed that one man was injured by a moving car and a second person was also injured. Both were taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

As well as the 59-year-old man from Harlow, seven other people were arrested - one on suspicion of affray and possessing a bladed article in public and six on suspicion of violent disorder.

All eight have been released on bail while inquiries continue.

■ Police have asked witnesses to call police on 101, citing ISR 252 of January 2.

Pregnant woman and boyfriend attacked by pair of moped thugs

A PREGNANT woman was threatened and her boyfriend assaulted by two thugs armed with a screwdriver.

The victims were walking along a cycle path connecting Paringdon Road and Commons Road at about 1.20pm on December 28 when they were almost hit by the two teenagers riding a moped.

The youths then stopped and attacked the man, hitting him a number of times and assaulting him with a screwdriver before threatening his girlfriend.

The pair then rode off in the direction of Staple Tye.

■ Witnesses and anyone with information should call police on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Tot's first Christmas at home with his family

Baby Dylan weighed just 2lbs when he was born prematurely at 31 weeks

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PARENTS Alex Short and Gary Sharp had their lives turned upside down when son Dylan was born three months early.

But just 12 months later the family have spent their first Christmas at home together in Church Langley, Harlow and Dylan is going from strength to strength.

"There were days I was genuinely scared my little boy might not make it," said Alex, 27. "When I went into hospital for a check-up appointment I was only 31 weeks pregnant and the last thing I expected to happen was that in just three hours' time my son would be born and that he would be spending the next three months in hospital."

Dylan was born at 3.47pm on December 9, 2014, weighing just 2lb 8oz. He spent four weeks in the neo-natal intensive care unit at Queens Hospital in Romford where, luckily, he had no serious health concerns.

But on the day he was due to come home, a nurse told Alex and Gary, 30, they wanted to keep Dylan in for another night as they were concerned at how sleepy he had been whilst feeding.

Alex said: "I gave him one last feed before we went home and that was when things changed. While he was feeding, he choked on some milk, stopped breathing and turned blue."

"Before we knew it we were surrounded by nurses who took Dylan from me and administered oxygen until he was breathing properly."

The family were told Dylan had a bowel condition called necrotising enterocolitis where the tissue starts to die and unless carefully managed it can prove fatal, so he was transferred to the Royal London Hospital.

There the family found out about realise just how awful and unsustainable it was.

"After 10 days of rest, doctors thought Dylan was well enough to start reintroducing feeds. At first he was doing really well, but after a couple of days he stopped tolerating them."

An X-ray showed air bubbles in his abdomen and a small section of Dylan's bowel would need surgery to be removed.

"At this point, it was a godsend to be able to stay at Stevenson House," said Alex. "I could stay with Dylan until late without having to worry about missing the last train home. It was also reassuring to have a phone with a direct line to the ward in my room."

The couple had access to a kitchen, laundry room and even a quiet room, which they used regularly.

"I was in a bad place at times. There were days I was genuinely scared my little boy might not make it but being so close to him during such a difficult time took a huge weight off my shoulders."

"Had I been at home I would've been sitting alone with my thoughts which would've made me feel much worse."

Dylan finally returned home on March 5. He has since had his stoma reversed and is now thriving.

"The Sick Children's Trust was such a huge help during that time," said Alex. "I cannot thank them enough for the compassion and hospitality I was shown."

Council warns it must make savings of £1m to balance the books

having to make further cuts of £3m up to 2021 on top of this £1m for 2016/17 and the multi-million pound savings already made in previous years."

Since 2011/12 the Government grant, which funds nearly half of the authority's services including waste and recycling, street cleaning, parks and open spaces, food safety, planning, licensing and pollution control, has reduced by more than 65 per cent.

Cllr Clempner added: "The council will continue to work hard to protect services and jobs but there will come a point when this can no longer be achieved. We continue to look at ways to keep costs down by improving what we do and how we do it."

The administration's budget proposals for 2016/17 will be considered by its cabinet on January 28 and then the full council on February 4.

Cllr Clempner said: "There remains considerable uncertainty over the future funding for council housing. We already expect to have less income through proposals to change rent levels which will reduce our housing budget by £12.8m over four years from April 2016."

"This means less money for council housing services, modernising and maintaining council homes and the building of new council homes.

"Therefore we are looking carefully at how we prioritise what we do and how we do it."

Before finalising last year's budget the council undertook a townwide consultation.

As a result, The Playhouse, paddling pools and Pets' Corner were protected until 2018-19.

Dance teacher thrilled to be included in New Year Honours

'I thought letter about my medal was a scam'

William Mata

THREE people have been included in the list of New Year Honours for their contributions to the community of Harlow.

Dance school teacher Brenda Taylor will receive a British Empire Medal (BEM), Harlow Council chief executive Malcolm Morley will be appointed Officer of the Order of the British Empire (OBE) and magistrate Shaun Rayner is to become a Member of the Order of the British Empire (MBE).

Mrs Taylor, 73, of Three Horseshoes Road, Harlow, receives her honour in recognition of her services to dance.

"It was a complete surprise," she said this week. "When I received the letter from the Cabinet Office I thought it was another scam as I'd recently received a few scam letters claiming to be from BT. I ripped open the envelope and as I read it I realised it was not a fake. It told me not to tell anyone about the award."

"I thought I haven't served in Iraq or anything and couldn't believe I was to receive an honour. I did not tell anyone but as soon as the honours were announced there has been great excitement."

Congratulations

"Lots and lots of people have been calling me to say congratulations, even people I knew back in the '50s."

She added: "I am proud that I am listed as being from Harlow as I have always lived here and I am not from a wealthy background. This award shows that if you want something you can get it if you work for it."

Mrs Taylor recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of the dance school she started in Harlow with a special musical show. The group meets at the Latton Bush Centre.

Mr Morley, who joined Harlow Council in 2003, said he was honoured and delighted to receive his OBE for services to local government.

"I have had the privilege to work closely with some great colleagues, politicians and partner organisations in Harlow and beyond over many years and I feel that this award is also recognition for their great work," he said.

He added: "I would like to thank those who nominated and supported me for this award."

Mr Rayner, of Davenport, Harlow, is a member of the Essex Family Panel and receives an MBE for services to the administration of justice and the community in Essex.

■ Former Harlow resident Mark Leppard, the ex-principal of Doha College in Qatar, was honoured for services to British education.

Mr Leppard, who is now head of The British School in Abu Dhabi, was made a Member of the Order of the British Empire in last year's Queen's Birthday Honours.

"The MBE came as a complete surprise but one I am extremely proud to receive," he said. "I feel extremely honoured and very humbled."

Mr Leppard received his award from Prince Charles at Buckingham Palace in the week before Christmas.

Hospital radio rewards volunteer David for 45 years service

A VOLUNTEER who has dedicated 45 years to Harlow Hospital Radio has been rewarded for his long service.

David Jackman, who since 1971 has been part of the team which broadcasts to patients in Princess Alexandra Hospital, received a long service certificate from the Hospital Broadcasting Association in recognition of his remarkable achievement.

Mr Jackman joined HHR soon after the station launched, having been a member of Radio Stortford.

He said: "At first it was easy, less technical than now, although you had to be careful in cueing records using a felt mat under the record which had to be held ready for release as the turntable was running constantly.

"In my first years at HHR you were either a presenter in a studio or a technician controlling the mixer desk."

The station, which has charitable status, broadcasts live every evening from 7pm from studios in the hospital basement. Mr Jackman added: "There is a good team of very dedicated people running the station now, all due to the training involved before being let loose in the studio.

"I hope HHR continues the good work of the past. Who knows, they may eventually arrive at a fully automatic studio without the need for any of those accident prone, lost for words, fallible human beings."

Devastated by theft of money

SIR, On December 22 we took my 78-year-old disabled mother to Asda to do her Christmas shopping. Whilst there she needed to go to the toilet so we took her to the disabled toilet.

After leaving, she remembered she had left her bag in there so we quickly hurried back and were relieved to find the bag still in there. We carried on shopping but when we went to the till to pay we found the £180 she had in her purse had been taken.

She was devastated as she saves all year to go out and treat her grandchildren. For all this to be taken away from her by someone who obviously has no conscience is despicable.

The store could not help as there are no security cameras facing the toilet area and the police couldn't do anything without any evidence to work with.

So I would just like to say a huge thank you to the person who stole the money. I hope you can sleep well at night.

Long wait to say farewell

SIR, My 95-year-old mother died on November 30 and, having a pre-paid funeral plan in place, I managed to register her death and contact the funeral directors by December 3.

I stated I was willing to accept any time but really wanted the funeral to take place as soon as possible. However, I was told it was a busy time and the earliest date available was December 22, a wait of 19 days, which I unhappily accepted.

The following week I noted in the Star that the funerals of other people who had died several days after my mother were due to take place within 10-14 days. I have since spoken to someone loosely connected with funeral directors and was told one firm effectively pre-books blocks of time at the crematorium, meaning other families such as mine are delayed from saying farewell to their loved ones.

Something as important as this should not be business

No quick fix to defeating ISIS

SIR, Tis the season of peace on Earth and goodwill to all mankind, but how does Robert Halfon celebrate it? He votes in favour of aerial strikes on ISIS in Syria.

How can he and so many other MPs, including sadly a number of Labour MPs, believe that more bombing and killing will produce peace in Syria or anywhere else despite the evidence of the past 14 years and more?

Violence begets violence. ISIS will only be finally defeated ideologically. If, as many Muslims claim, ISIS's nihilism is a total perversion of true Islam, that is the message that must be got over by every means possible, especially to the young people who are at risk of succumbing to jihadist ideology.

Rather than trying to kill Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi and other known leaders, indict them for crimes against humanity and set up an international tribunal for the Middle East to try them, in absentia if necessary. Appoint Muslim lawyers and judges, and use Muslim clerics to make the case and refute claims that such a court would be an agent of Western imperialism.

Meanwhile, the imperative for anyone with the slightest influence over any of the parties should be to work for a ceasefire, not more killing.

Of course, those on all sides who have committed crimes must be brought to justice, but arbitrary killing is not justice. Full support must be given to UN special envoy Staffan de Mistura and his deputy Ramzy Ezzeldine Ramzy in their endeavours to broker a ceasefire.

A massive humanitarian relief programme to the whole region, distributed through local organisations, and with peace-keeping troops in support if necessary to ensure it is delivered to where it is needed, is essential. In addition to being morally right, it would also help to undermine the ideological basis of ISIS and other terrorist groups.

Every effort should be made to stop the flow of weapons and ammunition, oil, revenue and recruits to ISIS, undermining its physical strength.

Yes, these things are easier said than done and offer no quick fix, but I remain convinced that bombing can only be counterproductive.

I still wish Mr Halfon a peaceful New Year.

The irony of traveller ban

SIR, So Harlow Council and Essex County Council have managed to protect our green verges and common land from travellers for another 18 months.

This is good news to all of us in Harlow who do not want to see the aftermath of rubbish left from when they are eventually moved on.

However, with a touch of irony, the extension of the injunction has led to Harlow Council issuing an unprecedented number of notices going up all over the town, wherever there is the slightest patch of greenery, informing all of the presence of the injunction.

I have seen people taking the notices out of the plastic sleeves and failing to put them back securely which, along with the weather, has resulted in them being strewn far and wide, creating another rubbish problem.

Thanks for the gifts of food

SIR, Harlow Foodbank would like to thank Tesco customers at the three Harlow supermarkets and at Bishops Park in Bishop's Stortford who donated food to them on December 3-5. We collected more than 5.5 tonnes of food.

This was a fantastic result and far beyond our expectations. We really appreciate the support we receive from Tesco customers and staff during this busy festive period.

With this donated food and the additional 30 per cent top-up from Tesco, we are now in a good position to further maintain and develop our work with local people in crisis in 2016.

Build homes above shops

SIR, Recently I had occasion to walk around Harlow town centre on a wet Sunday afternoon and it struck me that, 60 years after it was built, how lifeless it was.

The solution is to build housing above all the shops. This could be done step by step so as to minimise disruption.

It would also help to remedy the shortage of new homes.

Families enjoy a nappy new year

Busy time for midwives over festive period

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

CELEBRATIONS to herald the start of the New Year were extra special for one Harlow family when they welcomed the latest arrival to their fold.

Kerry Douglass, 28, and husband Paul, 32, were the toast of family and friends after baby son Harvey was born at Princess Alexandra Hospital on New Year's Day.

Weighing in at a healthy 7.21bs (3.3kg), Harvey was delivered at 9.58pm.

"It went well," said proud mum Kerry, of Byngams. "He was actually overdue by a few days but everything was fine and we came home the next day."

"It was a bit surreal to give birth on New Year's Day. I was joking with my friends that it would be on Christmas Day or, if not, on New Year's Eve which was when I went into hospital."

"It's a lovely feeling to have one of the first babies of the year."

The couple have three other children - daughters Summer, 5, Melody, 2, and son Harrison, 15 months.

Shirley Murley, from North Weald and Rose Gurteen, from Sheering, also gave birth at PAH on New Year's Day where midwives were kept busy with the arrival of 11 babies.

Meanwhile, Kimberley Thomas, 27, of Spinning Wheel Mead, Harlow, was one of six mums to give birth on Christmas Day.

Kimberley and her husband Reece, who have a three-year-old son called Dylan, have named their new daughter Elsie. She was born at 12.29am and weighed 7.71bs (3.5kg).

"We were not thinking about the fact it was Christmas," said Kimberley. "Having a child on Christmas Day is probably the greatest gift you can receive."

Drivers caught in festive drink/drugs crackdown

ALMOST 100 motorists were arrested on suspicion of driving while over the limit or under the influence of drugs during Essex Police's Christmas and New Year crackdown.

More than 2,000 drivers were breathalysed or tested for drugs using roadside kits during the five-week campaign which ended on Monday.

A total of 77 were found to be over the drink-drive limit or refused or failed to provide a sample, while 22 drivers tested positive for drugs.

Adam Pipe, casualty reduction manager at Essex Police, said: "Our efforts to identify people who use their vehicles under the influence of drink or drugs and risk harming not only themselves but other road users are strengthened by the flow of information and intelligence from members of the public."

"I would urge anyone with information about people who drink or take drugs and drive to call Crimestoppers on 0800 555111. No-one will know you called."

Road closed after woman injured in head-on crash

AN elderly driver suffered serious injuries in a two-car accident which closed Howard Way in Harlow for five hours on Saturday.

Firefighters used cutting equipment to remove the roof of one of the vehicles in order to free the 72-year-old woman, who was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The crash, which happened shortly before 5pm, involved a black Nissan Micra and a black BMW 3 series.

The driver of the BMW, a 34-year-old man from Bishop's Stortford, suffered minor injuries.

The road was re-opened at 10pm after police had conducted initial investigations and the cars had been recovered.

Police have appealed for anyone who witnessed the collision to contact them on the non-emergency 101 and quote incident number 550 of January 2.

Wedding costs could increase in venue move

Concern over plans for registry office services

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE cost of getting married could rise when services are moved away from Harlow Registry Office later this year.

From April 1 wedding ceremonies will no longer take place in the College Square building while birth, marriage and death registration will be incorporated into Harlow Central Library.

Essex County Council, which is behind the changes, could not say whether the current £46 charge would rise or confirm the location of a new wedding venue.

Wedding services taking place before April 1 will not be affected. After that date, couples planning to get married would register at the library and sign legal documents at the wedding venue.

Consultation

But Mike Danvers, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for resources, has criticised the proposals and said a recent consultation period should have been better advertised.

"It is still a bit unclear as there has been little consultation but it looks like this (proposal) is going to happen," he said.

"I had no idea the consultation was ongoing until recently and [the lack of clarity] is most unsatisfactory."

Small meeting rooms in the library will be used for the registration of births, marriages and deaths while there will be no reduction in the number of books and services available.

The uncertainty over the future of the office contrasts comments made last year by county councillor Roger Hirst who said it had never been their intention to close registry offices.

Cllr Hirst spoke in response to a petition started called Save Essex Registry Offices which gathered 778 signatures.

CONCERNED: Councillor Mike Danvers outside Harlow Central Library

A county council spokesman said this week: "The council recognises the importance of offering affordable wedding ceremonies or civil partnerships that meet the high expectations of the public.

"Going forward, we aim to deliver an efficient and effective service to customers whilst not increasing the burden on taxpayers.

"To support the delivery of the new service and ensure quality, agreements will be made to ensure residents are offered a high service for a low cost."

Hospice set to benefit from fitness challenge

PEOPLE wanting to get back in shape after the festive period are being given the chance to do so at the same time as raising money for a worthy cause.

St Clare Hospice is running a 'You Lose, We Gain' challenge for those keen to convert unwanted weight into much-needed pounds.

The nine-week programme, which is being run in partnership with the body experts from NX Professionals, starts with a full body MOT and weigh-in on Saturday, January 16.

During the course of the challenge those taking part will benefit from the support of NX Professionals and the St Clare fundraising team to help them smash both their physical and sponsorship goals.

There will also be the opportunity to attend three exercise classes incorporating circuits and high intensity interval training.

Caroline Collins, of NX Professionals, said: "We are passionate about encouraging health and wellness as part of an on-going healthy lifestyle and by partnering with the hospice can reach out to others to share our experience and knowledge with healthy tips and strategies to kick start 2016."

Places on the challenge are limited to 30. To register to take part, visit <http://stclarehospice.org.uk/get-involved/you-lose-we-gain-challenge/>. For more information, call Jade on (01279) 773750 or email jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk.

VOLUNTEERS at St John's Arts and Recreation Centre in Old Harlow will be holding a table top sale later this month to raise much-needed funds.

The centre in St John's Walk is a registered charity which receives no public funding and depends on fundraising and donations to meet running and maintenance costs.

The charge to have a table at the sale on Sunday, January 24 is £5. Sellers keep all the money they raise while the rest of the money will go towards renovation work on the building.

To book a table, call (01279) 442447 on weekdays between 10am and 12.30pm, email info@stjohnsarc.org.uk or download a form from www.stjohnsarc.org.uk.

Award for Guide Katy

MEMBERS of the 3rd Harlow Guides troop are celebrating after one of their number gained the movement's highest award.

Katy Briant, 14, was presented with the Baden Powell Challenge Award for which she had to give up her own time to volunteer, raise money, research and write documents as well as attend weekend challenges.

A spokeswoman for the troop said: "The Baden Powell Award is rarely achieved so we are incredibly proud of her."

In brief

Campaign for town's inclusion in rail plan

HARLOW: Councillors have vowed to fight for the town's inclusion in Transport for London's plans for a major new railway.

At a meeting members of Harlow Council voiced their support for the Crossrail 2 line to extend to the town.

The issue was brought to the council's attention following a petition started by town centre trader Richard Osband.

Crossrail 2 will connect suburban towns in London's north and south west with an improved line cutting through central London.

Services on the proposed line are expected to begin running in 2030 and will, terminate at Broxbourne station.

A council spokesman said: "Harlow stands to benefit economically if it is included in Crossrail 2."

The proposals are subject to a consultation period which runs until Friday.

Silent killer warning

ESSEX: Faulty heating systems could be killers according to fire chiefs, who are urging residents to install carbon monoxide monitors.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service issued the warning after a death caused by a gas leak in the county.

Neil Fenwick, divisional officer at ECFRS, said: "Carbon monoxide is a silent killer."

"It seeps into your home without any smell and creates symptoms which can easily be confused with a winter cold."

"Poorly maintained boilers, blocked flues and chimneys, badly ventilated rooms and old and broken cooking or heating appliances can all leak carbon monoxide filling a room with this deadly gas."

Shoplifting arrests

HARLOW: Five men have been arrested on suspicion of theft following a spate of shoplifting incidents targeting large retailers across Essex.

A car linked to a number of high value thefts from Asda in The Water Gardens, Harlow, was identified and stopped by Essex police officer PC Jamie Bull.

The group of men were arrested and remained in custody on Monday.

Offering a place to sleep as no-one should be alone

For around 20 years Harlow Chocolate Run has provided a Christmas Haven for the town's homeless. Star news editor Gemma Gardner spent a day working alongside other volunteers to find out more.

LIKE it or not, for most people Christmas means time with the family, a big meal in a warm house and the obligatory range of unwanted presents. It's the season we love to hate.

People joke about how they will spend as little time as possible at their in-laws, moan about what's on television and pledge only to buy presents for the children next year.

For homeless people, with their high rates of isolation and loneliness, Christmas can be one of the hardest periods of the year. But one Harlow charity is tackling the problem head-on by offering a safe, warm and welcoming place to go over the festive period.

"A lot of these people have hit rock bottom and that is a very lonely place to be," Jo Busson, chairwoman of the Harlow Chocolate Run explained.

"There is a lot of stigma surrounding the homeless yet so many don't realise that it can take just one traumatic event – a relationship break-up, the loss of a job, grief – to leave people like you and me vulnerable."

Hard times

"Our aim is to help those who have fallen on hard times in whatever way we can."

The Chocolate Run has been providing a shelter for the homeless at Christmas for more than 20 years.

The charity was set up after a team of dedicated volunteers, who delivered hot chocolate to the homeless in London, realised there was a need for help in Harlow.

Now for 10 days over the festive period, it runs the Christmas Haven offering the homeless simple accommodation, food, clothing and toiletries at the playbarn at the GPCA in Abercrombie Way, Harlow.

This year more than 25 people were given a place at the haven and dozens of volunteers signed up to help.

Volunteers do as many, or as few shifts as they want to cover to ensure the haven is covered 24/7. The day is split into five shifts a day including an 8-hour night shift from midnight.

One volunteer said: "Christmas is all about belonging and being part of something and I thought that volunteering was a way to have that sense of belonging and helping out in other ways."

She added: "A smile for somebody lifts them. When they come in here they're really down. They've probably been ignored most of the year."

"And you watch them gradually lift their heads up. They start talking and their communication skills come back."

Donations to this year's haven reached record levels, with people and businesses across Harlow offering to help.

Two rooms at the haven were packed full of food and presents for the guests.

Jo added: "Our sincere thanks to everyone who has given us gifts to help make sure no-one in Harlow needed to sleep rough at Christmas. We're a small charity with no premises and no paid staff, and we simply could not do what we do without their generosity."

Hug from Jason is a dream come true for slimming club consultant

A DREAM came true for a Harlow slimming club consultant when she met pop singer and stage star Jason Donovan.

Kirsty Steinle, who runs a Slimming World groups at The Link and the Latton Bush Centre, got the chance to cuddle the Australian heartthrob when he was the VIP guest at the annual Slimming World Awards.

Kirsty described her meeting with Jason as a "wonderful end to a fabulous year".

"I couldn't be prouder of the members of the Harlow group," she said. "They've lost fantastic amounts of weight throughout 2015, with many of them making their weight loss dreams come true by hitting their target weight, improving their health and more."

"I felt very honoured to represent the Harlow Slimming World group when I met Jason. Now I feel incredibly motivated and I can't wait to support more people in Harlow to lead healthier, happier lives in 2016."

Jason, who found fame on the soap opera Neighbours before launching a pop music and stage career, said he was delighted to meet Kirsty at the event held at the International Convention Centre in Birmingham.

"I met lots of people who have lost incredible amounts of weight and it has completely changed their lives – in fact, it's saved their lives in some cases," he said.

"Every single one of them told me that they couldn't have made the changes to eat more healthily and become more active without the help and support of their Slimming World group and their consultant, so people like Kirsty are clearly very important."

Looking ahead, Kirsty said: "Lots of people will be making resolutions to lose weight and improve their health this New Year. What I love is that while our members lose weight, they also grow in confidence and happiness – we joke the only thing that gets bigger at our group is our smiles."

Kirsty's groups meet at The Link, in Parsloe Road, on Wednesdays and Latton Bush Centre, in Southern Way, on Thursdays. For more information call 07824 649434 or visit www.slimmingworld.co.uk

Notices posted at traveller ban sites

Injunction covers more than 300 'vulnerable' locations

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

LEGAL orders banning travellers from setting up unauthorised encampments have been posted on hundreds of sites across Harlow.

The action by Harlow Council is part of a ground-breaking injunction banning travellers from 321 locations until June 16, 2017.

Among the various sites considered to be vulnerable and included in the ban are parks and playgrounds, highway verges, schools, cycle tracks, private land and sites previously occupied by travellers.

The order also bans 35 named persons from setting up encampments anywhere in the district of Harlow.

The High Court injunction was granted to Harlow Council and Essex County Council last month after the authorities were initially granted an interim order in March 2015.

FLASHBACK: Star, December 17

Anyone who breaches the injunction could face a custodial sentence or fine or have their assets seized.

Serving of the orders on the sites land is a legal requirement of the injunction as they provide evidence for the council to inform any travellers setting up an unauthorised encampment that there is an injunction in force.

Because of the possibility that some documents could be displaced by weather conditions or people removing them, photographs of each document pack on site is taken as evidence.

In the nine months since the interim order has been in force, five separate unauthorised encampments have set up on land covered by the injunction. In each case the travellers moved out of Harlow within 24 hours.

Airshow crash jet's ejector seats out of date

THE North Weald Airfield-based jet which crashed during last summer's Shoreham Air Show killing 11 people had expired ejector seat parts and an out-of-date technical manual.

A preliminary report by the Air Accidents Investigation

Branch also said the response by emergency workers was delayed because some explosive cartridges on the Hawker Hunter's ejector seat and canopy were still live after it crashed on the A27 in West Sussex on August 22.

Manufacturer support for the jet, which was flown by 51-year-old pilot Andy Hill who survived the crash, ended after it was retired from military service and its technical manual had not been updated.

The explosive cartridges for the jet's ejector seat and canopy had expiry dates of June and July 2014, more than a year before the crash.

A final report is still to be published by the AAIB, but the bulletin made seven safety recommendations about ejection seats and maintenance of ex-military aircraft.

Photography student's work impresses competition judges

A PHOTOGRAPHY student from Harlow was left "almost speechless" after her work featured alongside pictures taken by professionals from some of the world's leading photo agencies in an international competition.

Megan Lovell, who is studying on the BA (Hons) Photography course at Anglia Ruskin University in Cambridge, was the only British photographer to make the shortlist for the UNICEF Photo of the Year Awards organised by UNICEF Germany and GEO magazine.

The awards recognise photos that depict the personality and living conditions of children worldwide in an outstanding manner.

Megan received an "honourable mention" after her series of photos of her eight-year-old sister Sophie – originally taken for a module of her degree course – impressed the judges.

"The photos tell the story of my younger sister trying to make sense of an over-commercialised childhood," she said. "To receive such an honour within the UNICEF awards is incredible. I'm almost speechless."

As well as being the only British photographer, Megan is also the youngest photographer to be honoured this year by UNICEF.

A UNICEF spokesman said: "Although Megan has not finished her training yet she already is a photographer with a fine instinct and the talent to read faces."

Kerstin Hacker, leader of the photography course at Anglia Ruskin University, said: "Megan's series is a very powerful reminder on the pressures children are under and how important stories can sometimes be found very close to home."

"Her work manages to capture the difficult transition from child to adult and the commercial pressure that makes this journey perilous."

"Being selected amongst seasoned photographers in a global, professional photographic competition is an amazing achievement and a real testimony to the ambition and professionalism of our students."

The top prize was won by Georgi Licovski, a photographer with European Pressphoto Agency, for his images of young refugees on the Greece-Macedonia border.

Pervert doctor who filmed up women's skirts is struck off

Medic fled UK before being sentenced for outraging decency

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A DOCTOR who worked at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow before fleeing the country after being caught secretly filming up the skirts of women shoppers in the Harvey Centre has been struck off.

Biju John, 44, went on the run in 2011 before he could be sentenced for the charge of outraging public decency, an offence to which he pleaded guilty at Chelmsford Magistrates Court.

Details of the case were given at a fitness to practice hearing held by the Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service, which ruled that Dr John's name should be erased from the medical register. It also imposed an immediate order of suspension.

The hearing was told Dr John recorded the videos of women using a bag containing a concealed camera.

He was arrested and appeared in court on April 12, 2011 when he admitted committing an act outraging public decency by behaving in an indecent manner.

He was released on bail while awaiting sentence but by the time he was due to appear at Harlow Magistrates Court for sentence on May 3 he had already left the UK and returned to India.

WORKPLACE: Princess Alexandra Hospital

The hearing was told he flew out of the country on the day of the Royal wedding of Prince William and Kate Middleton because he believed airports would be quieter.

When he failed to appear in court for sentence, he was charged with the offence of failing to surrender to custody without reasonable excuse.

Decaying

On May 6 police officers forced entry to Dr John's rented flat in Dads Wood, Harlow, but discovered it was empty. They noted that food in the fridge was weeks out of date and while other items which had been left out in the open air were decaying, suggesting he had not lived there for some time.

The Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service panel said it had served notice about the hearing to his parents in India.

In reaching its decision to remove him from the register, panel chairman Richard Davies said: "Public confidence in the medical profession would be seriously undermined if Dr John was not erased from the medical register after indicating a guilty plea to an offence related to his actions in filming beneath women's skirts, and then fleeing the country prior to sentencing."

He said Dr John had breached fundamental tenets of the medical profession, adding: "His initial offence had been aggravated by his subsequent failure to accept the consequences of his actions and by his determination to evade criminal sanction."

John, who was not legally represented at the hearing, was given 28 days from the date of the decision in which to lodge an appeal against the ruling.

An Essex Police spokeswoman said: "He is believed to have left the country and is currently wanted."

A PAH spokeswoman said: "Dr Biju John joined The Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust as an anaesthetic registrar on April 14, 2009."

"Following his arrest on April 10, 2011, internal disciplinary proceedings were instigated and he was immediately excluded from duty."

Two arrested on suspicion of Christmas Eve mugging

TWO people have been arrested in connection with an assault on a 76-year-old man in Harlow on Christmas Eve.

The victim was walking in an underpass between Church Road and Latton Common Road at around 7.30pm on Thursday, December 24 when he was approached by two people who demanded a cigarette and cash.

When he refused to hand anything over he was assaulted and robbed of a few pounds in loose change.

Police said a 26-year-old man and a 29-year-old woman, both from Harlow, have been arrested on suspicion of robbery. They have released on bail until February 21.

Police are continuing to appeal for witnesses to the incident.

Anyone with information is asked to call DC Leo Fordham at Harlow CID on 101.

Track champion

A TEENAGER has been crowned Scalextric World Champion after setting the fastest time for a 10-lap race during one of the competition's heats held in Harlow.

Fourteen-year-old Ted Trim, from Theydon Bois, recorded a time of 24.49 seconds when he took part in the competition in the Harvey Centre back in August.

New homes are memorial to town's brothers in arms

Houses named after soldiers killed during First World War

Ken Morley

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

A NEW development of council homes named after three brothers killed in action during the First World War has been officially opened in Harlow.

Riley Mews honours the memory of Cyril, Francis and Thomas Riley, who all lost their lives serving their country in the 1914-18 conflict.

The first of the brothers to die was Private Thomas William Riley, who served with the 1st and 4th Battalions of the Essex Regiment. He was killed in September 1915 at the age of 18.

Private Cyril Riley was serving with the 5th Battalion of the East Kent Regiment when he lost his life in May 1916 at the age of 17. Corporal Francis Riley, who was 21, died nine months later in February 1917 while serving with the 8th Battalion of The Bedfordshire Regiment at the age of 21.

The development was officially opened by Frances Payne, the daughter of surviving Riley brother Jack.

She was joined by Rod Truan, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for housing, for the ribbon-cutting ceremony after which they unveiled a road sign.

Also present were members of Mrs Payne's family, construction staff, residents and organisations from the Harlow World War One centenary community project group.

"Sadly, these three young men who went off to fight for their country, never returned home to their family," said Cllr Truan.

"We are very proud of the sacrifice Cyril, Francis and Thomas made by giving their lives for us and the Riley family name will live on in Harlow with this development named in their honour."

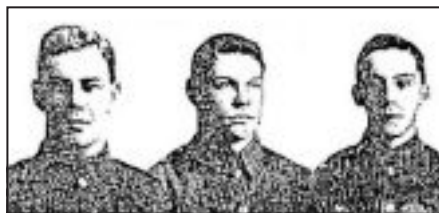

"I am pleased the Riley brothers' legacy will be part of Harlow's future and connected to an important moment in Harlow Council housing history."

Cllr Truan added: "Riley Mews will provide much-needed homes for Harlow's future generations. It is also one of three housing developments making history today with the first council houses to be built in Harlow for more than 25 years."

The seven homes have been allocated for rent to Harlow families on the Housing Needs Register.

A greight present

THERE was an extra special Christmas delivery for one lucky farmer when his border collie sheepdog called Kim gave birth to a litter of eight healthy puppies.

And owner Scott Smith, pictured above with the new arrivals, was amazed when he discovered that all eight of the pups which were born on his farm in the north of England were girls – something that has never happened in 150 years on the farm.

Mr Scott said: "It is very unusual for that number of puppies to be all the same sex."

"This is the first time that I have had this number in the litter, when all eight are female."

The puppies were born a couple of weeks before Christmas Day. Six have already been found new homes while the other two are still at the farm.

Judith Gregory, president of the West of England Border Collie Club, said: "It is very unusual. We have been breeding dogs for 40 years or more and I have had large litters of 10-14, but I cannot recall getting eight girls in a litter."

TRAINING: Rescue teams take part in emergency exercise

Practice makes perfect for airfield crash crews

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

FIRE and rescue crews at North Weald Airfield were put through their paces in a training exercise involving a car and a plane.

In the simulated crash exercise, a vehicle strayed on to the runway and collided with a light aircraft which burst into flames. The driver of the vehicle being killed and the passenger seriously injured.

Once the crew had extinguished the fire they turned their attentions to the 'casualties'.

The role of the main casualty was played by Epping Forest Council's emergency planning officer who, screaming and covered in fake blood, added to the authenticity of the exercise.

The aim of the exercise was to test the crews' skills in working as a team, dealing with fires, extracting casualties and performing life-saving trauma treatment.

North Weald Airfield manager Darren Goodey said: "Nothing can prepare you for the real thing. This is realistic training that reflects the type of emergency our crews could be called to. It was a great success from which a lot was learned by all involved."

REALISTIC: Rescue teams taking part in the crash exercise. Below right, the 'casualty' survives his ordeal

In brief

Pupils create art for maternity unit

HARLOW: Artwork created by students at a Harlow secondary school will help to brighten up the maternity unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Burnt Mill Academy, in First Avenue, was commissioned to produce a series of paintings for the unit. Eight students from Year 9, 10 and 11 will see their work take pride of place around the refurbished department early next year.

Art teacher Karen Humphreys said: "Our GCSE students are planning out their artwork now to decorate the five rooms and corridors at the hospital. The theme we are following is, appropriately, new life."

Ovation earned

HARLOW: Students at Harlow Fields School and College received a standing ovation when they gave a performance of Macbeth before the Christmas break.

The youngsters performed their version of the Shakespeare play at Passmores Academy.

Drama teacher Annie Thompson said: "This experience has boosted self-confidence, helped pupils bring a literacy project to life and understand the concepts of William Shakespeare."

"All the students left the venue full of confidence and feeling two inches taller."

Stewards pupils speak to Duchess and TV news crew

STUDENTS from Stewards Academy in Harlow met the Duchess of Cambridge at a headteachers' conference organised by children's mental health charity Place2Be.

The Duchess, who is a patron for the charity, spoke to the two Stewards students when she attended the conference in London to give a speech about the importance of addressing mental health issues.

Place2Be has been an integral part of the support network available to pupils at Stewards for several years. It is run under the guidance of school project manager Sara Loveday.

Addressed

The Stewards party of deputy headteacher Marie Erwood, inclusion manager Keith Naunton, Ms Loveday and students Lucie Bleach and Harry Burling greeted the Duchess on her arrival. Lucie and Harry later addressed the delegates and afterwards they and Mrs Erwood were interviewed for the ITV evening news.

"Lucie and Harry spoke with enormous confidence and sincerity about the importance of having such a service available to pupils in secondary schools," said a school spokeswoman.

Mrs Erwood said it was important to be mindful of the pressures placed on children today, adding: "We must ensure that we look to their mental wellbeing as much as their physical wellbeing, as they are the parents of tomorrow."

Place2B chief executive Catherine Roche said: "Stewards is doing excellent work to promote positive mental health and ensure young people get the support they need at the earliest possible stage. "We were delighted to welcome them to our headteacher conference and we hope all schools across Harlow and beyond will follow suit and give pupils' wellbeing the attention it deserves."

Duo win the argument on diversity

TWO students from the Sir Charles Kao UTC in Harlow showed they had a way with words after winning a place in the second round of a debating competition.

Jake Rintoul and Raashika Mani impressed the judges by arguing against the suggestion that the BBC should be forced to implement diversity quotas.

The pair will now take part in round two of the English Speaking Union's Schools Mace debating competition, an annual championship open to all schools in England.

The UTC, which hosted the regional qualifier, also fielded a reserve team of Saul Lintonbon-Baker and Leon Manning when another school pulled out at the last minute.

Competitive

UTC principal Michael McKeaveney said:

"Congratulations to our team who go through to the next round in what was a very competitive evening. Our students were the youngest competitors and yet they spoke confidently."

Joining Sir Charles Kao UTC in the second round will be Westcliff High School for Boys and The Bishop's Stortford High School.

Meeting with survivor of Auschwitz

A GROUP of sixth formers from St Mark's West Essex Catholic School in Harlow took a harrowing trip back in time when they visited the site of the Auschwitz-Birkenau concentration camp in Poland.

The history students visited the Nazi death camp and met Holocaust survivor Monika Goldwasser during their three-day trip to Krakow.

KICKER HERE: Monika Goldwasser with students from St Mark's West Essex Catholic School

Lael Constance, a Year 13 student, said: "Some of the stories we heard were horrifying but it was a wonderful opportunity to meet Monika and hear her testimony. "She told us she was inspired to tell everyone about the ordeal as it is very important to remember the past."

Ed may well be growing up

COMEDIAN Ed Byrne is in real danger of growing up. The 43-year-old's latest tour, which takes in Harlow Playhouse on Tuesday March 22, sees Ed teetering on the brink of maturity for the first time in his 20-year career.

While his new stand-up show, Outside, Looking In, makes light of a gastric illness and the success of UKIP it also sees Ed talk a lot about his family life.

Could the man with a history of Just for Laughs, Mock the Week and Have I Got News for You appearances be opening his heart?

Ed says it was not his outward intention to create his most personal show to date.

"I didn't make a conscious effort to write a more personal show, but that's what was coming out when I started writing it," he said.

"A lot of comics may talk about the same stuff, but what makes it mine is that what I'm saying is what I genuinely think on this subject, and I try to make it as funny as I can.

"People come to see me for a laugh and I would like to think they go away thinking the show is quite heart-warming."

Ed said he is even preparing to talk about his two young children on stage for the first time, but don't expect a photoshoot in Hello magazine anytime soon.

"I'm aware that they haven't given me permission to talk about them and that there will come a point when I can't," said Ed.

"John Bishop, for example, has stopped talking about his much older children on stage because people know who they are.

"I talk about them in pretty abstract terms, because what I'm discussing is the act of parenting, and you can't talk about that without mentioning your own children. And there isn't anything in this show that would make them at a later date say they don't like this."

There is also political ponderings in the show while he makes room for some thoughts on the transgender debate and he confronts Twitter trolls.

While Ed has not forgotten his roots, he does admit that he can cringe when he thinks back to his earlier and more blokeish material.

"My comedy reflected my life at that time," he said of his earlier acts.

"I was single and enjoying myself, most of it was the fairly harmless difference between men and women kind of thing.

"But some of the stuff about an ex-girlfriend I can see was a bit angry and I wouldn't do it now."

He added: "I don't how much of that is simply getting older, or that times have changed, or mixing with a broader group of people.

"Interestingly, I find Twitter can expand your horizons; I've started following all sorts of people on it and it's good to get a different take on things."

A different take on things is a good quality for a comedian to have, and while Ed's act has become more refined – audiences can expect Outside, Looking In to be as funny as ever.

■ Ed Byrne will perform Outside, Looking In at the Playhouse on Tuesday, March 22. Tickets are priced from £19, to book visit www.playhouseharlow.com

Chris returns to former studio to show off ceramics

A NEW exhibition of recent paintings and ceramics by Chris Roskell and ceramics by Nigel Earle opens in The Gallery at Parndon Mill next week.

For many years Chris lived in Harlow and was based in a studio at Parndon Mill. He now has a large studio in Hastings, enabling him to produce on whatever scale he chooses and to work on more than one painting at a time.

"I used to think it may be a bit pretentious to call myself a painter but now, having spent most of my life doing it or thinking about it, I guess that's what I am," he said.

"I look for situations that I recognise from my visual and emotional experience and develop them within the arena of the canvass. At this point in my personal development it is as simple as that."

Nigel originally trained as a product designer, graduating from the Royal College of Art in 1973. After a career that has taken in many fields of design and art from computer graphics to art screenprints, he has now returned to the field of ceramics.

"The pieces I make fall into two categories – wall-hanging relief pieces or sculptural vase forms which I see as decorative rather than functional."

"I produce stoneware, enjoying the natural properties of the raw clay and often using a number of different clays in the same piece. The raw clay is often contrasted with recessed areas of dramatic glazing and glass."

■ The exhibition runs from Thursday, January 14 to Sunday, February 21. The Gallery is open from 10am-5pm Tuesday-Friday and on Sundays from 2-4pm.

Return of Tarantino

The Hateful Eight (18)

Director: Quentin Tarantino
Starring: Samuel L Jackson, Kurt Russell, Jennifer Jason Leigh, Tim Roth

WRITER-director Quentin Tarantino is no stranger to controversy and he has been gleefully provoking audiences since 1992 when he stormed the Sundance Film Festival with his incendiary debut feature, Reservoir Dogs.

His eighth film, action-packed western The Hateful Eight, has been making headlines for all the wrong reasons on the other side of the Atlantic: law-enforcement unions threatened a boycott in response to the filmmaker's comments about police brutality, some critics charged Tarantino with misogyny in their reviews, and selected screenings of a 70mm version of the film were blighted with technical problems including out-of-focus images, improperly-synched sound and failing projectors. Cinema-goers took to social media to voice their displeasure.

As an ardent advocate of traditional film-making techniques, Tarantino shot his film with the widescreen format in mind. Very few cinemas in the UK and Ireland are equipped with old projectors.

Technical gremlins aside, Tarantino's eighth film is a gritty period piece set shortly after the American Civil War, which is bookmarked into six blood-spattered chapters and follows bounty hunter John Ruth (Kurt Russell) as he escorts prisoner Daisy Domergue (Jennifer Jason Leigh) to Red Rock where she will be tried and hanged for murder.

She is handcuffed to Ruth and occasionally feels his wrath, when she dares to shoot off her mouth. As the bounty hunter and Daisy trek through the rural wilds of Wyoming, they are engulfed by a blizzard and seek refuge in a stagecoach lodge called Minnie's Haberdashery.

The owner, Minnie Mink (Dana Gourrier), is away visiting her mother, so Bob (Demian Bichir) is running the establishment in her absence.

Other lodgers include rival bounty hunter Major Marquis Warren (Samuel L Jackson), town hangman Oswaldo Mobray (Tim Roth), quiet and unassuming cowboy Joe Gage (Michael Madsen) and former Confederate General Sandy Smithers (Bruce Dern).

Town sheriff Chris Mannix (Walton Goggins) is also present, hoping to keep the peace.

With a sizeable bounty on Daisy's head, trigger fingers become itchy and Ruth faces a battle of bullets and wits to cling onto his valuable prisoner.

■ The Hateful Eight is at cinemas from Friday, January 8.

From elaborate pavlovas to plush, punk-pink rainbow cakes, the Meringue Girls, aka Alex Hoffer and Stacey O'Gorman, have been taking the baking scene by storm with their vibrant and pioneering creations.

Describing their latest collaboration with Currys PC World, O'Gorman explains: "We've created recipes to help inspire the nation to try something new in the kitchen."

Hoffer promises that even the most amateur of cooks will be capable of perfecting these delicious numbers.

"None of them are out-of-this-world crazy or difficult," she says.

O'Gorman, who trained in culinary arts in her native New Zealand, and Hoffer, a graduate from the prestigious Leiths School of Food and Wine, first bonded over whisked whites during their time as chefs at London Cinema Hackney Picturehouse; and later pledged to nail the sweet treat after entering – and later winning – Cooks To Market, a TV cooking contest hosted by Gizzi Erskine.

Taste The Rainbow Macarons

MAKES 40-45

Ingredients

For the almond paste:

200g blanched ground almonds, sieved
200g icing sugar

80g free-range egg whites (about 3 medium eggs)

Food colouring of your choice

For the meringue:

200g caster sugar

Marvellous meringues

Cupcakes are so last year... Meringues are the coolest new sweet treat on the table, as Alex Hoffer and Stacey O'Gorman show Gemma Dunn

100g free-range egg white (about 3 medium eggs)

For the buttercream:

500g caster sugar

250g egg white

500g unsalted butter (room temperature)

Flavouring of your choice

Method

First, make the almond paste. Turn the oven on to 200C.

Sieve the almonds into a bowl with the icing sugar and mix until incorporated. With an electric hand whisk or standalone mixer, mix in the egg white to make a thick, smooth paste.

Divide the mixture into two bowls, and colour with your chosen food colouring (go slightly darker than you'd like, as the colour will dilute when folded into the white meringue later).

Next, start on the meringue. Pour the caster sugar into a deep roasting dish lined with baking paper and place in the hot oven for seven minutes, until the sugar gets very hot to the touch but doesn't melt.

Meanwhile, whisk the egg whites to a stiff peak, so they are just ready (not over whisked) when the sugar comes out of the oven.

Take the sugar out of the oven and turn oven temperature down to 150C. Then, teaspoon by teaspoon, spoon the hot sugar into the stiff egg whites (still whisking on top speed). Take your time with this to get the meringue as stiff as possible. Continue whisking until the bowl feels cool to the touch (about five to 10 minutes).

Next, divide the meringue mixture into two, and using a wooden spoon, fold the meringue into the two bowls of almond paste, being careful not to knock out the air.

Fill a piping bag, with a 1B nozzle, with the mix and pipe out small round mounds (about the size of a 2p coin) onto parchment paper-lined baking trays. Bash the tray against the worktop about three times to remove air pockets, then let the macarons form a skin (this normally takes about 30 minutes at room temperature). You can tell if its ready to go in the oven by running a finger gently across the top of the shells and seeing if it doesn't stick (it shouldn't!).

Bake for around 14-16 minutes. To check if they are ready to come out, wiggle a fingertip right to left atop one of the macarons; if the top doesn't come away from the feet (the bottom of the macarons) then they are good to go.

When they come out of the oven, immediately slide the macarons off the tray onto a cool counter to shock them – otherwise they will stick to the paper when you try to remove them. Let them cool completely before trying to remove from the tray.

While the macaron shells are cooling, start on the buttercream filling.

Mix together the egg whites and sugar in a large metal or glass bowl over a saucepan of simmering water. Stir until the sugar crystals have dissolved and mixture is warm to touch (to check this, rub it between two fingers).

Transfer the mixture carefully to the standalone mixer or bowl with a handheld electric mixer, and whisk until stiff peaks form. Keep whisking on full speed until the meringue is at room temperature – and at the same time, while whisking, add the butter in small chunks. Keep whisking until the buttercream resembles whipped cream.

Flavour as you wish. Vanilla is always a safe bet, but there are an abundance of great flavours.

Sandwich each shell with some buttercream and enjoy!

"... Some Of Our Latest Client Reviews ..."

"... As it was the first time I have sold and bought i was really nervous at how everything would go. There was no need to worry as the guys at Reyland Johnson were amazing. Ben worked soooo hard for me and went above and beyond to get everything completed so we could move before Christmas. If I ever had a worry or a question all i had to do was pick up the phone and Ben would put me at ease straight away. The main thing i liked from the company was that they were all just friendly and honest. If you want a friendly reliable and hard working agent then I would 100% recommend Reyland Johnson ..."

"... Top job from these guys. Not only sold our home in record time, but found our new family home. Couldn't be happier with the service they provided ..."

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

You must try to show a little more understanding and patience with your loved ones this week Aries. You may not realise it, but Mars has set you a little on edge in recent days and you could do with taking a step back to look at the bigger picture. New ways to deal with complicated financial issues come with ideas you have on Tuesday and Thursday. Ring now for more advice from the stars.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

From Sunday you start to understand the reasons behind a close one's actions and you may even be thinking of forgiving them for something they have said or done. Don't go too far with your forgiveness as the stars indicate it may pay them to do a little more grovelling first. An event from Christmas is also given understanding by a younger person. Ring now to hear how spicy love is looking.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

There is a new you emerging. No longer do you feel sorry for yourself but you're ready, willing and able to face life head on. You have more energy than you had last month and this is proven by the new list of arrangements and commitments you are now willing to take on. LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

Something you thought you were going to achieve, but didn't, will turn out to be a blessing in disguise. Have faith in who you are and what you want and others will too. An attractive new prospect comes at a price. Find out what it is before you proceed, as it may be more than you are willing to pay my friend. Ring now to hear how Uranus helps you make peace with a major past issue.

Saturn, the planet of structure, is on hand to help you find the right words, so don't run away from confrontation, but face it. Ring now to hear why this is such a great month to kick bad habits.

Be prepared with your work this week as it is likely that you're going to be asked to do something which you thought you had much more time to complete. Just because others are offering you changes, does not mean that you need to make them Aquarius. If you are happy with the way things are, then leave them so. By the same token, if you know you need to make adjustments then do so. Foreign links prove lucky and most intriguing for you and are set to make this year one of your best yet! Ring now to hear how Mars brings revelations.

Saturn helps you turn a problem into an asset as you're offered the chance to shine and show your skills. Ring now for a major personal prediction.

Afghanistan memories stir footballer Zanone

Striker's now gunning for goals after end of Army role

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

FOOTBALL pales into insignificance when you speak to Harlow footballer Stuart Zanone about his time in Afghanistan with the British Army.

Liverpool legend Bill Shankly said football was more important than life or death but when your friends are fighting in a war zone and don't come back one day, you realise that there's far more to life than winning or losing on a Saturday afternoon.

Striker Zanone, 30, of Red Willow, will be known to many Harlow & District Sunday League veterans.

But he has played for many top senior clubs in Kent, although surprisingly never for his hometown club Harlow.

He is now back in Ryman North and playing for Cheshunt, managed by former Harlow coach Paul Wickenden.

Losing friends

Zanone spent eight months training foreign soldiers in Afghanistan, as well as new recruits as part of an eight-year career with the special forces.

He also worked in other countries in the Middle East, as well as Germany and Britain.

He said: "Afghanistan changes you and losing friends is never a nice experience.

I was a physical training instructor. I used to train and keep all the soldiers fit, the new recruits and the foreign soldiers.

"But in Afghanistan it's a totally different story. At the time I hated it because I lived in a tent with no electricity. I don't mind being away from home but it's not a nice place.

"It can be quite hairy. I lost a few friends. I have carried a few coffins.

"It's not nice when that happens. That's how it is. I knew what to expect when I signed up.

"I served all over. I spent four years in Germany. I served in Afghanistan and other countries around there, and then all over the UK."

Afghanistan was understandably a horrific period in Zanone's life but he realises now that in terms of character building there is nothing that comes closer.

"Looking back I loved it. I had some bad experiences. I will never do it again and it's one of those things that not many people do," he said.

"I went when I was 21, nine years ago. You have your scary moments. There's days when it's quiet and there's days when you're thinking 'what's going to happen today?'"

Zanone joined the Army when he was 17 and left at 25.

He now works as a project planner and surveyor and is due to start a new job working with his brother in Oxford this month, although he says this will not impact on his ability to play for Cheshunt.

"My original trade in the Army was in telecoms. That's what I spent the first year and a half training. And then I re-traded because I like my fitness. But telecoms is a good back-ground to have.

"When I left I did a re-settlement course in fibre optics and I have stuck with that since," he said.

Football will never be more important than life or death but for Zanone, it is helping him heal a painful chapter in his life, but one which he says has had a massive impact.

"It's definitely made me a stronger person," he said.

"The Army changed me as a person. It turned me into a man. It gave me a lot of things. I can't complain.

"You make bonds and you make different kinds of memories out there. You kind of hold on to them."

Stuart returns home after breaking record at Ashford

IT seems rather strange that striker Stuart Zanone has spent most of his playing career at several senior teams but never at hometown club Harlow Town.

The 30-year-old forward, of Red Willow in Harlow, started his football career as a goalkeeper playing in a youth team for Championship club Ipswich Town, but quickly realised his forte was scoring goals rather than saving them.

He has spent most of his football career playing in Kent.

He broke the goalscoring record in a calendar year with 47 goals for previous club Ashford United in the South Eastern Counties League over the 2013-14 and 2014-15 seasons.

He moved to Kent after finishing an eight-year career with the British Army.

Zanone, a veteran of the Harlow & District Sunday League, has also had a stint at Sawbridge-worth Town in the early part of his career.

He returned to Ryman North when he joined Harlow-based Cheshunt boss Paul Wickenden at Theobalds Lane in December, netting a hat-trick in only his fourth game for the club.

Explaining why he choose to join Cheshunt last month, he said: "I have been living in Kent. I have been playing for Ryman North and South teams before but never anywhere as close as Cheshunt.

"I have known Paul [Wickenden] for a while. He came in to buy me when I was at Thamesmead [and Wickenden was at Waltham Abbey]. But the price was too much. He has kept on and he messaged me and wondered if I was interested."

Zanone won the Players' Player and Supporters' Player of the Year awards during a successful season at Ashford United in Kent last season.

He set the record for goals in a calendar year in 2014.

"It was a great season," he said.

The striker spent five years living and playing in Kent, but has now returned to live in Harlow.

Zanone said: "I have always travelled to Kent. I moved there five years back when I left the Army. I made a name for myself down there. I've always stayed there."

But the striker has enjoyed playing at Theobalds Lane and will see out this season, despite huge competition for places with the prolific Jason Hallett and Adam Bolle contesting starting spots.

He said: "I will stay here for the rest of this season. I have had a lot of personal things going on so I hadn't been enjoying my football. My form wasn't great [at Ashford] so I've come here to try and get that back."

He hit a hat-trick against Great Wakering before Christmas.

Zanone helped Thamesmead to promotion to the Ryman Premier Division at the end of the 2012-13 season, when they beat Maldon & Tiptree on penalties in the Ryman North play-off final.

"I won the Ryman North play-off final with Thamesmead and Cheshunt have definitely got a chance," he said.

He is convinced the Ambers can go up.

Zanone said: "It's similar. Thamesmead were not a big club but there was a tight group of players - everyone was friends. We will be up there definitely."

Running off Xmas excess

THE festive period was a busy time for Harlow Running Club members who took the opportunity to participate in numerous local, national and international events.

Brenda Clayton kicked off the post Christmas running events at the Cambridge parkrun on Boxing Day.

Clayton completed the 5km course in 29min 51sec, triumphing in her age category (65-69 years).

New Year's Eve saw three Harlow Running Club (HRC) runners take on the Flitch Way Marathon, running the 26.2 miles from Braintree to Bishop's Stortford, and back, along the slippery Flitch circuit.

Kerry Mavris finished her debut marathon in 88th position with an excellent time of 4hr 20min 27sec.

Janice Page and Debbie Smith finished the marathon together in 4.30.20 in 103rd and 104th positions respectively.

Paul Schroder and Wendy Spring ran the San Silvestre Vallecana 10km race in Madrid with 28,813 fellow runners.

Fantastic

Schroder finished in 4148th position in 48:21 and Spring was 7277th position in 52:07.

Five HRC members joined 566 runners at the Ely New Year's Eve 10K with excellent performances and a fantastic personal best (PB) by 1min 41sec for Catherine Ridge (135th in 45:11).

Daniel Jephcott finished in 63rd in 41:34, followed home by Jamie Jephcott (98th in 43:04), Jon Steadman (124th in 44:36), and an excellent run for Michelle Jephcott (561st in 1.17:23).

Andy Kinney competed in the Lamberhurst 10K on January 1, finishing 123rd in a time of 1.02:33.

The next day he raced at the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park 10K in Stratford, completing the course in an excellent 58:13.

There was a fantastic turn out for the third race in this winter's Cross Country League hosted by Saffron Striders at Newport on January 3.

Fifty-one runners braved the wet and muddy conditions to record an excellent set of individual and team results.

The women's team came second to continue their fine run of form and the men's team recorded a creditable fourth place against stiff opposition.

Overall the HRC team are in third place in the league with two races left in the series.

Cross Country League results: Women's team: Julia Gardiner (9th in 34:27), Sharon Wright (12th in 36:03), Catherine Ridge (14th in 36:48), Anna Baker (16th in 36:58), Carrine Jay (17th in 37:24), Vicky Steadman (21st in 37:58), Caroline Bailes (25th in 38:30), Sandi Rust (27th in 39:02), Debbie Barry (41st in 41:01), Wendy Spring (42nd in 41:02), Karen Moor (46th in 41:55), Louise Keddie (62nd in 42:47), Janice Page (53rd in 43:02), Kerry Mavris (56th in 43:13), Debbie Smith (59th in 43:34), Louise Cootes (64th in 44:52), Holly Nairn (76th in 50:00), Brenda Clayton (77th in 50:23), Paulene Gallop (80th in 52:04), Joy Hale (81st in 52:07).

HAWKS FACING A CRITICAL MONTH

Gruelling period to make-or-break Harlow's campaign

By Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FORGET the January sales, it's the January flails for Danny Chapman's Hawks.

By the end of this month Harlow Town will have played nine games in a busy period, which the Hawks boss says will make-or-break their season.

Harlow got the New Year off to a decent start with two home wins, 1-0 against play-off chasing rivals Thamesmead Town on Tuesday, which followed a 2-1 victory against Waltham Abbey on Saturday.

The squad's endurance and stamina will be tested to the very limit as Harlow take on the likes of promotion-chasing rivals AFC Hornchurch (January 30) and Bury Town (January 16), both at home.

Stamina-sapping

Harlow's stamina-sapping month starts with a trip to Witham Town on Saturday, who were relegated from the Ryman Premier last season.

On Tuesday they visit mid-table Soham Town Rangers.

Chapman knows with many of the fixtures against mid-table sides, a target of at least 20 points should be achievable.

And the Hawks boss is unconcerned if they are ugly, gritty 1-0 wins – the points are the be all and end all.

He said: "What's the most important scoring goals or winning games? I think winning games."

"This has put us right back in the mix. There's a lot of games in January but we always had to do this at some point, and now we have the momentum it's the perfect time."

"But we mustn't get complacent. If we keep winning, at the Three straight wins a good Abbey habit

Ryman North

Harlow Tn 2
Waltham Abbey 1

THE Hawks made it three wins on the trot for the first time since mid-September with a victory over Waltham Abbey in Saturday's derby.

The scoreline was fairly flattering for the Ryman North basement side.

It turned out to be former Arsenal Championship-winning striker and ex-Bishop's Stortford manager Martin Hayes' penultimate match in charge of the Abbots.

Harlow Town clearly took their foot of the gas after going 2-0 up in the first half through Alex Read and Piers Wixson.

The Hawks went ahead on 11 minutes. Ryan Melaugh received the ball on the edge of the Abbey box and fed Read, who took one touch before slotting past Aaron Omand into a far corner.

Powerful

The hosts made it 2-0 on 24 minutes.

Left-back Layne Eadie had again ventured forward and delivered a powerful cross which was unmarked and could not miss from close range, fizzing the ball into the roof of the net.

Abbey pulled a stunning goal back on 54 minutes.

Midfielder Tom Wood let rip from 25 yards out with an unstoppable curling effort over Hawks keeper David Hughes which flew into the top right-hand corner.

There were few second-half chances as Harlow picked up a deserved three points.

The only blemish was an injury to stand-in right-back Jared Small (hamstring).

Hawks boss Danny Chapman says his form as an emergency right-back has negated his need to bring in another full-back.

The victory took Harlow even closer to the top five as they chase a play-off place for the third successive season.

Chapman added: "First half we were by far the better side. Two-nil up and looking reasonably good. Second half I would not say they were better than us."

"I think we stepped off it slightly. We always looked in control."

"We've won the game and we've got the three points. That's three wins on the bounce."
